WAR ON ROOSEVELT AND LODGE OPENED BY SENATOR CRANE

In Bitter Quarrel Over Taft Boom, Dalton Man May Resign to Fight President in State.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Because Senator W. Murray Crane refused to support the presidential boom of Secretary Taft he is at odds with President Roosevelt and Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, and it is said here that he has delivered an ultimatum to the President that if there is not an immediate change in the attitude of the President and junior Senator towards him he will resign from the Senate.

Senator Crane has declared to his friends that he will not obey the wishes of President Roosevelt if they are contrary to his own opinions, and it is said in official circles that Senator Crane is satisfied that the President and Senator Lodge are responsible for disagreeable things that have been said about him in administration newspapers.

Rather than support Taft and leave his old friend, Senator Foraker, who is opposed by the President and Senator Lodge, Senator Crane is said to have announced his intention of not only resigning the Senatorship, but of serving his connection with the Republican National Committee, of which he became a member when the relations between him and the President were of the friendliest character.

"NO FEAR OF BIG STICK."

"They may swing the big stick at Washington as much as they like," Senator Crane is quoted as having said to a friend, "but it has no terrors for me."

He has no sympathy with the Taft boom, does not believe that Secretary Taft can secure the nomination, and even if he did Senator Crane is satisfied that he could not be elected.

When it became known in Washington that Senator Crane would have nothing to do with Taft, that there was some friction between him and Senator Lodge, and that the President was standing by Senator Lodge, ugly paragraphs about Senator Crane began to appear in the newspapers controlled by the Roosevelt Administration.

Senator Crane did not like them and finally he made an investigation by which he traced them to the President and Secretary Loeb.

He had hardly completed his investigation when friends of the president began openly hurling criticisms of Senator Crane that had been made by the president.

Senator Crane saw behind it all the "one Italian hand" of Senator Lodge with whom he had disagreed before, and when the two senators got back to Massachusetts in May they had a conference.

Senator Crane impressed upon his colleague the fact that he would not stand any newspaper abuse which originated in the White House and that he would not wear the Taft collar even if by refusing to do so he displeased the President.

THREATENED RETALIATION.

If any more attacks were made on him, Senator Crane is said to have told Senator Lodge he would make a public declaration in which he would hit from the shoulder and tell truths that would not be relished at the White House.

Senator Lodge conveyed the junior senator's ultimatum to the president and when followed an open rupture about which all Washington is talking.

The newspaper attacks on Senator Crane partially ceased but the president is said to have been declaring himself at Oyster Bay in a way that cannot be misunderstood.

Meanwhile Senator Lodge has gone back to Massachusetts with instructions to push the Taft presidential boom and the rivals of Secretary Taft, Speaker Cannon, Senator Knox and Senator Foraker—are confident that Senator Crane will work just as hard to check any move that may be made towards the Taft standard.

Senator Crane is recognized as one of the most powerful Republicans in New England, and it is said to have told himself that he believes that he can swing the Republican organization in New England.

It is predicted here that as a result of the rupture between the President, Senator Lodge and Senator Crane, Senator Crane will succeed in foiling the efforts of his colleague to use instructions from the White House are "make the Massachusetts Republican convention endorse Taft."

The quarrel has already aroused the liveliest interest in Washington and when the count is taken it is said that many senators who are now said to be with the President and Senator Lodge will be found on the side of Senator Crane.

Senator Crane is now at his home in Dalton and so far has not consented to make a public statement.

POLICE HUNT IN VAIN FOR DAYLIGHT HOLDUP MEN

To-day the police force of Boston is using its utmost resources to solve the baffling mystery of how bold criminals, yesterday, in broad daylight, in the heart of the business district, on Milk street, opposite the offices of the Boston Elevated Railroad Company, robbed a wagon of the company of a strong box containing $4,500 and got away safely without leaving a trace of their identity.

No more daring robbery has ever been perpetrated in Boston. Edward Fenno, paymaster of the Medford division of the Elevated Road, was in charge of the money and had deposited it on the seat of the wagon preparatory to taking it to the Medford car barns to pay off the men of his division. He turned away to talk with two fellow employes of the road, and in an interval or about two minutes, the strong box with its treasure vanished mysteriously from its resting place.

An attempt was made to keep the robbery a secret, by both the Elevated officials and the police, but it speedily became known. Absolutely no clue to the robbers could be found.

Robbery in Crowded Street.

Paymaster Fenno yesterday brought in his wagon from Cambridge, as usual, and parried out to it the strong box which concealed the pay of the men at the different stations whom he pays off. The money was in small envelopes in bills of small denomination. After he had, as he thought, put the cash in a safe place, he became engaged in a discussion with fellow employes, casting an eye now and then at the box to see if it was safe. When he finally turned to drive his wagon away he found the box was missing and immediately reported the loss to the Elevated officials, who in turn notified the police.

The wagon was stationed sixty feet from Pearl street, and a thief could easily have walked up to the team, picked up the small box and carried it nonchalantly around the corner.

Hundreds of people were passing at the time. The street was crowded, for it was just after 10 o'clock.

After the surprise of the robbery had passed, the Medford car barns were noti-

KOREA IN TURMOIL AS EMPEROR ABDICATES

SEOUL, Korea, July 19.—Emperor Yi-Hyoung formally abdicated the Korean throne at 11 o'clock.

He expressed regret in his parting address to the people that national calamities have marked his entire forty-four years' reign. His decision to transfer the crown was due to his conviction that no other means existed of relieving his country's distress.

It is uncertain which of three candidates will succeed Yi-Hyoung. The imbecile Crown Prince has the strongest backing. The dissolute Prince Wihan and the eleven-year-old Prince also have powerful parties, however, and whichever one secures the approval of the Japanese will doubtless win the throne. The change will mean, in any event, a tightening of the Mikado's hold on the country.

Foreign Minister Hayashi of Japan arrived late last night and drove at once to the palace.

Marquis Ito's appointment as the Emperor's successor, but it is believed that the Japanese will oppose it.

The Ministers have been threatened with assassination. The garrisons are under heavy guard, the troops in the city are on the alert to act at once in the event of an uprising against the Mikado's authority.

NO RELIEF IS IN SIGHT FROM TORRID WAVE

Hundreds in Boston Abandon Business for Cooling Breezes at the Beach---Whole Country Suffers in Broiling Sun.

No relief is in sight for the se who have been suffering from the wave of blistering heat that is rolling over the eastern part of the United States.

In all of the cities of the East death and intense suffering followed the hot wave. In New York thousands of people were forced to the parks and the seashore to sleep. Many of them also slept on the roofs.

The heat wave came from the sea, the weather sharps say, and the only help cancome from the directiono f the Rocky Mountains.

MANY ABANDON BUSINESS.

But there is not a rain cloud nor a cool breeze anywhere in the country headed this way.

To-morrow will be as hot as to-day, so far as the Boston weather observer can make out.

Hundreds to-day gave up trying to do business in thi scity and headed for the beaches. Men walked through the streets in their shirt sleeves and filled all the available spaces in front of cooling refreshment counters.

Death and suffering followed yesterday's mould ware. In Boston many victims of the sun's rays and the humidity blanket, which is pressing down on the earth and keeping out the cooler air above the land, were taken to the different hospitals to be given the tee treatment.

There were fifteen deaths in Providence, one in East Braintree, and another in Charlestown, due to exposure to the sun.

Mercury at 91 in Hub.

Clerks were overcome in office buildings, workmen on streets and wharves were compelled to lay down their labors and rest during the afternoon, so excessive was the humidity.

The mercury reached 91 in Boston, or 11 per cent. above normal. The night was most oppressive. Few could gain a wink of sleep, and the parks and Common were filled with sweltering humanity who sought relief from the confines of wooden and brick walls. Night before last had been oppressive and breathless, but last night was the limit. Men, women and children in the poorer sections of the city slept outdoors, on sidewalks, doorsteps, fire escapes and on the roofs, with only the starlit canopy above them for a coverlet.

Flush Streets To-day.

To-day many streets in the tenement house districts are to be flushed by firemen. There is no rain in sight, no storms approaching this way, so far as the weather experts can make out on the map.

In Lynn, Worcester, Mansfield, Providence, and many other cities and towns in New England come stories to-day of death and prostration by the heat.

In New York city three deaths were recorded, with fifty prostrations. In Philadelphia, during the Big Elks' parade, thousands were overcome and were sent home or to hospitals. Many of the paraders had to drop out of the line of march.

Throng at Beaches.

At Revere Beach yesterday the State bathhouse was patronized by 2,921 men and 1,784 women—a brand new record for the popular bathing ground.

THOUSANDS TOPPLE OVER DURING ELKS' PHILADELPHIA MARCH

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—In the wake of the marching Elks yesterday came the most terrible harvest of heat prostrations the city has ever known. From 3,000 to 5,000 men and women toppled over in the streets as the withering sun beat down upon their heads. They literally fell like soldiers on a battlefield. Hospitals were swamped. The medical corps was simply

QUINCY HONORS BURKE, HERO OF THE GEORGIA

Seaman William J. Burke, Georgia martyr, was buried to-day with all the honors that his native city, Quincy, could pay him. Services were held in St. John's Church, West Quincy. Every one of the fourteen hundred seats was taken, and there were many who could not gain admission.

Even Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, pastor of the church, was moved by the tribute that was being paid one of the young men of his parish. And when the priest departing from the usual custom of the high mass of requiem rose and spoke in eulogy of the life that had been sacrificed for his country, his simple words went straight to the hearts of the great audience. No one, man or woman, came from the church unmoved by the tribute of the priest.

Lauds Victim's Heroism.

Father Coan spoke of the sefulness of the catastrophe that had taken so many young lives. Then he said:

"This occasion is particularly sad. This young man was just budding into manhood when he was taken away. Life is sweet to all of us, and we like to cling to it as long as possible. When the end does come we love to be surrounded by those we love and cherish.

"This boon was denied this young man. There is, perhaps, one consoling thought. William J. Burke met his death gloriously, a martyr to his country, a hero.

"Heroism is shown not only amidst the blasts of bands and the roar of cannon but also amid the milder paths of peace. We are told that the best method of preserving peace is to be prepared for war. That is what this woung man was doing. He was fitting himself so that when his country rallied he would be quick in his response.

Thought Only of Comrades.

"The men of the Georgia wer eat target practice. When the tragedy occurred this young man had the opportunity to escape, but he refused to leave while his comrades were in danger. When the doctor came to him, he said, "don't mind me, doctor, my hour has come. Go to my comrades, they are not so badly hurt as I am."

"That was heroism of the highest type, heroism of which his country should be proud.

"Let us hope that as he served his country well, so he has already found favor with Almighty God. Let us pray for him."

Whether in pews or in the ailes, the great crowd of all creeds knelt and joined in the prayer.

In the church the casket, draped in the

NEW TELEPHONE GRAFT REVELATIONS TO-DAY

Political graft in connection with the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, it was expected, would be further delved into when the hearing on a petition for lower rates was resumed to-day before the Higway Commissioners.

The fact that hundreds of people are carried on the books of the trust who hold "graft" through political pull, and do nothing for salaries, and the further fact that "Farmer" John H. Lee, Democratic leader of Ward 23, and lieutenant of Mayor Fitzgerald, is an adviser of the company, have been the sensational developments so far of the investigation which was inaugurated by the Boston Post.

What Does Lee Do?

"I want to know," said Lawyer Whitman, "why this company is carrying John H. Lee and others on its payroll, and I want to know what their services are. I think the commission has a right to know whether the company is extravagantly managed. That has to do with rates."

This is the information that Auditor Longley gave about Mr. Lee, former alderman and former chairman of the Democratic City Committee:

Q—As Mr. John H. Lee on your salary roll? A—Yes, sir.

Q—For what purpose is he employed? A—He is employed as an adviser of the company.

Q—In what respect? A—I am not prepared to say.

Q—Because you do not know? A—Yes.

Q—To whom does he report? A—He would probably report to Vice President Jasper N. Keller.

Q—Does Mr. Lee present vouchers of his incidental expenses? A—Yes.

Promises to Ascertain.

Q—And has he presented any such vouchers since July, 1906. A—I am not prepared to say. I should have to ascertain.

Q—Will you ascertain that? A—Yes.

Q—Are there other persons who are employed on a salary or otherwise, relative to legislative affairs? A—I think so.

Q—Who are they?

A—At this point Former Congressman Powers blocked Mr. Whitman's efforts to delve into the company's books for the time being.

overrun. Men and women had to be treated in the streets under stands, in wagons or in stores or private houses as they could be handled.

Hospital records showed that in the principal institutions east of the Schuylkill a total of 1,000 heat cases had been treated during the day.

Included among the victims were well-known citizens and men prominent in the Elks' order. Henry J. Walters, exalted ruler of Philadelphia Lodge, fell over in the street as he marched by Girard avenue, and was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. Past Grand Exalted Ruler Judge Melvin of Oakland, Cal., became ill and had to leave the line. These were but two cases out of many score.

Marchers and spectators say it was the most terrible day they ever experienced. Yet the weather figures show no extraordinary heat records. The mercury went above the 90 mark for a few hours, but there were no figures like the 103 that marked several memorable days in Centennial year.

Had the heat continued an hour longer the victims would probably have run up to 10,000. With the first drops of water the crowd broke, and in five minutes the streets were empty, and for the first time since morning there was a lull in the work of the medical corps.

Great Sorrow at O'Shea's Death.

There was great sorrow among the Elks when it was learned that John D. O'Shea, of Lynn, Mass., had died, a martyr to the convention business. He was chairman of the Board of Grand Trustees, and was part owner and business manager of the Lynn Evening News.

Since Tuesday night, when he was stricken with apoplexy as he was entering his room on the thirteenth floor, Mr. O'Shea had been lingering at the point of death. His end was expected momentarily. Physicians and surgeons were surprised at his remarkable fight for life. Mr. O'Shea was one of the most popular men of the fraternity. On every side he was hailed as "Good Fellow" . . . once.

Victim of Overwork.

His collapse is believed to have been hastened by the rush of work in completing a four years' budget of statistics of the fraternity. He arrived in this city last Saturday. It was necessary that the report be completed by Tuesday night for presentation to the grand lodge and he immediately began the task. It had been completed an hour when Mr. O'Shea fell helpless to the floor before his bedroom door. He was assisted to his room and a corps of physicians, surgeons and nurses were summoned.

On Wednesday afternoon the brain was flooded with blood from a hemorrhage. He lapsed into unconsciousness. It was then thought that he was dying. He rallied during the night, but his condition is again grew serious with the excessive heat of the morning and afternoon. He was unmarried. Two brothers survive him. His age was about forty-five years.

Cabbage Leaves for Hub.

The Boston Elks, with their accredited foresight, placed cabbage leaves in their hats for the march down Broad street. As they passed in front of Mayor Reyburn they doffed their hats. With few exceptions, the cabbage leaves remained on the marchers' heads. The Mayor and the occupants of the stand laughed heartily. The Bostonians were tipped off by a bluecoat and they also were amused. A wag dubbed them "The cabbage heads."

HUB ELKS, TIRED BY BIG PARADE, HEAD HOME TO-DAY

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 19.—Tired and foot sore are the members of Boston lodge of Elks, No. 10, to-day after their long walk in the great parade yesterday, but happy because of the great hit they made.

Mayor Fitzgerald, accompanied by William F. McClellan and E. P. Clark, arrived on the Federal express yesterday and immediately joined the lodge at its headquarters at the Windsor Hotel, where he was photographed with the lodge before leaving for the starting point. Owing to warmth of the day and his late illness he didn't parade, but watched the line from the reviewing stand.

James F. Nolan, Hugh W. Bresnahan and Dr. T. H. O'Connor arrived in time to parade. Many other brothers came out to see the parade, among whom were Edward M. Gallagher, chairman of the institution commissioners; Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Sullivan, Mortimer Grynstil, John M. Coney and Daniel J. Sheehan of East Boston. M. J. Leary also came over to see the big parade, although not an Elk.

John D. O'Shea of Lynn, chairman of the Board of Grand Trustees, died last night.

After a most strenuous week the members looked forward to the journey home. Those going to-day left Philadelphia on a special train at eight. They leave New York at 9 P. M. over the Providence line, arriving in Boston to-morrow morning at 6.45.

Many take side trips to Atlantic City and Jamestown.

Mayor Fitzgerald, left on the Federal express at 8.05 last night.

It is reported that Boston may get a prize.

national colors, rested at the altar railing. On top was the spray of pinks that came from the men of the Georgia. Music was by the full church choir of thirty voices under the direction of John J. Mahoney, organist. The solos were "Crest as a Bird," Miss Mary McCarthy; "De Profundis," Mr. John Mahon; "Agnus Dei," Miss Williams J. Biggerness.

Among those who attended the services were Mayor James Thompson of Quincy and Congressman Joseph A. O'Connell.

When the funeral left the home of the young man's uncle, Henry Clare, at No. 351 Granite street, the hearse escorted by the uniformed seamen, the streets were lined with people. They paid their respects to the martyr by standing with bared heads as the cortege passed.

The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

None of the men of the Georgia was present, but the navy was represented by pallbearers from the U. S. S. Illinois and an escort of six men from the cruiser Boston. The pallbearers were: Seaman Gunner K. Williams, A. W. Gilbert, W. A. McKinnon, J. L. Carlson and F. H. Cole.

The escort consisted of W. O'Keefe, chief master at arms; H. Samuels, ship's chief master at arms; Corning, coxswain; J. S. Wilson, L. Silvia and J. F. O'Neil, quartermasters.

Among the floral tributes was a mound of palms, sent by the officers from Desmaster-General George con L. Meyer. The seamen of the Georgia sent a broken column of white pinks, while the men of the Illinois and Des Moines sent pieces marked "Our Comrade" and "Our Hero."

DEATH NEAR TWO GEORGIA HEROES, DECLARE DOCTORS

Early today the following bulletin was issued at the Chelsea Naval Hospital, concerning the condition of the seamen injured in the explosion on the battleship Georgia:

"Midshipman James T. Cruse had a very bad sinking spell, but rallied under active stimulants. Condition very critical. Temperature 103.4, pulse 160. He shows remarkable vitality but is not gaining ground.

"Seaman Louis O. Meese, continually growing worse, and condition most serious at the hospital. Death expected.

"Seaman John A. Rush, extremely critical, but hopeful. Holding nourishment well and responding to stimulants, and improved. Seaman John O. Malek, extremely critical, but hopeful. John A. Fone, still critical, but much improved. Seaman James P. Thomas, critical, but is resting well and condition hopeful. Seaman Herold L. Gilbert, condition extremely critical. Chief Yeoman Orly Tagland, continued improvement, but still in very critical condition. Boatswain's Mate F. Schlapp, doing very well; recovery assured. Seaman Samuel L. Rosenberger, recovering and doing very well. Seaman Charles L. Eich and Engineers Mate Charles H. Hansel, out of danger."

fied that the paymaster had been delayed, and the men, who were all on hand to collect their week's pay, were told to keep out of the hot sun until the arrival of their wages. The usual time for paying off is from 9.45 until 12, but it was after 12 before the paymaster in his delivery wagon drove up, and it was 2 o'clock before the second batch of envelopes was handed over to the storemen and conductors.

Third Degree for Criminals.

Every criminal known to the police in Boston will be put through the third degree to-day in hopes that some one in the under world will have heard of the plans of the bold men who perpetrated the robbery and thus afford a clue upon which the police may start.

When seen at his home on Hancock street, Somerville, Fenno refused to discuss the affair, and said that what information was to be given out must come from the officials of the company. He would not deny that he was robbed and appeared to feel the affair keenly.

To-day it was reported that in addition to the robbery from the Boston Elevated Company there was another daring daylight robbery of two men yesterday afternoon in Bromfield street, in which $700 was taken from a business house under the eyes of the cashier and clerks.

'PLOT TO SEND M'GRAW TO THE DEATH CHAIR'

Defendant's Counsel Hints That Victim's Mother Schemed With Police.

ALL FOR REVENGE, HE SAYS

That the prosecution of Robert McGraw, former watchman for the American Steam Gauge and Valve Company, charged with the murder of Benjamin Farnell in the factory on the night of April 25, 1904, and brought to trial in the Superior Criminal Court mainly through the assertions of the slain man's mother, was the result of a plot was the declaration of Attorney E. F. Benjamin to-day in his final speech before the jury.

"The trial is mainly the result of a plot to railroad McGraw to the electric chair," he shouted as he pleaded with the twelve men to save his client from the electric chair.

"Gentlemen of the jury, I ask you to determine if this prosecution is not one of revenge, and if it is not the result of a plot in which the chief plotters in Mrs. Farwell, assisted by Bisbikis, Storey and Sergeant O'Neil."

Letter Written Recently.

"Consider carefully that Bisbikis letter and the evidence of Bisbikis and Storey. Is it probable that this letter of condolence, written to the mother should have remained hidden away for almost two years? Is it not a possibility that this letter of condolence, presented here in court, was secured by Mrs. Farwell, not on the day of the funeral, but almost two years later, and received by her after she had some of the witnesses here had got together?"

Attorney Benjamin followed his argument to the jury at 10:50, when court took a recess of half an hour.

Assistant District Attorney McGettrick, who is conducting the case for the government, began his plea for the prosecution at 11:30. He detailed the circumstances of the killing and reviewed before the jury the evidence that the government had brought out.

WHO HAS SEEN WILLIAM JOHN M'CAFFERY?

Old Home Week Bureau:

I would like very much to get trace of my brother, William John McCaffery, whom I have not seen for ten years, but who I would like to have come to visit us during Old Home Week. I had a letter from him last March. At that time he was a street railway conductor in Philadelphia. He wrote me that he had been slightly injured and was going to a hospital. I would like to have him come to visit me, and anybody who knows where he is and will communicate with me will have earned my gratitude.

MRS. MARY BENNETT,
No. 35 Bay street, Roxbury.

Here is a letter from a man who wants to find his old schoolmate.

WHERE IS THOMAS J. SCHUMACHER?

To the Old Home Bureau:

Twenty one years ago I left the Winthrop School in Tremont street. I did not complete the course. In my class was Thomas J. Schumacher, whose father, I think, was in business somewhere in Washington street, although I do not know the number. I have never seen Schumacher since leaving school and I would like to find whether he is still in Boston. I want to meet him during Old Home Week when I am going to Boston to renew some of my old friendships.

A. H. HEINON.

Secrecy.

As space permits the BOSTON AMERICAN will print these letters from time to time. Anyone who wishes to find some long-lost relative or some old friend or neighbor is invited to make use of the bureau by writing to it giving the names of the person sought and any points that may aid in finding him.

If you are coming from out of town to attend the Old Home Week celebration have your mail addressed to you in care of the BOSTON AMERICAN OLD HOME WEEK POSTOFFICE and when you arrive make use of the facilities which this newspaper is glad to place at your disposal in its INFORMATION BUREAU.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 19.—One man was killed, three injured and men rolling stock destroyed in a head-on crash on Cass avenue, Allegheny, at 10:30 a. m. to-day. The accident occurred almost directly under the Ohio River connecting bridge and it was at first reported that a large plenic train had been wrecked. This report caused great excitement and the news spread like wildfire.

POPE PLACES NEW THEOLOGY UNDER THE BAN

ROME, July 19.—The syllabus promulgated by the Pope with regard to the so-called modernism in the faith contains a preamble which sets forth that Roman Catholic authors, under the pretext of progress, endeavor to explain them in the name of history in such a fashion that the dogmas themselves disappear.

To prevent such errors, the preamble says, the Pope has ordered a congregation of inquisition to note and reprove the principal errors and with his approbation sixty-five propositions of modernism are condemned. Here are some of the heresies put under the ban:

"Divine inspiration does not guarantee all and every part of the Holy Scriptures against error.

"The resurrection of the Savior is not a historical fact, but is purely supernatural.

"It can neither be demonstrated, nor is it demonstrable.

"The Catholic church became the best of all churches by living onward, and by purely political circumstances.

"The church is the enemy of natural and theological sciences.

BOSTON AUTO SPEEDER FINED AND REBUKED

PAWTUCKET, R. I., July 19.—Declaring that men who go out and get drunk and then attempt to drive automobiles at high speed through the crowded streets of cities are worse than crazy men armed with revolvers, Judge Lellan J. Tuck today fined George G. Stearns, aged twenty-two, of Boston, $20 and costs in the Pawtucket-Central Falls city jail for driving recklessly.

Stearns was arrested last night by Policeman Gregory. He refused to give the name of his father, merely saying that he was well-to-do and owned several autos. The young man didn't have enough money in his pockets to bail him out for the night and he spent the long, hot hours in a cell with a companion with him, who refused to give his name, was released.

To-day, in the Pawtucket District Court, Stearns pleaded guilty to overspeeding. He said that he was a Harvard student. Judge Tuck said as you who will go out and get drunk and then attempt to drive an automobile rapidly through the street of a city are worse than a crazy man with a revolver," said Judge Tuck, "and ought to be locked up. I will fine you $20."

INSURANCE AGENTS PLAN BIG CAMPAIGN

With nearly 100 delegates from all the New England and the Eastern States in attendance, the first annual convention of the International Union of Industrial Insurance Employes was called to order in Faneuil Hall at 11 o'clock to-day amid great enthusiasm. Secretary J. D. Williams of Boston officiated as chairman.

To-day's session is devoted exclusively to launching the new organization on a permanent basis. Credentials from the delegates were examined and a constitu-

The grand wind-up will come to-night when prominent labor leaders will expose the attitude of the big insurance companies towards its employes. The speakers will be D. D. Driscoll, secretary of the Boston Branch of the A. F. of L.; Patrick Maloney of the Cigarmakers' Union; Daniel J. Tobin, president of the Teamsters' Union; Norman McPhail, president of the local International Typographical Union, and leading insurance workers.

The general public is invited to attend to-night. To-day's convention is the result of the meeting of the insurance workers two months ago in Faneuil Hall, when it was decide dto band together, despite the threats and obstacles put out by the insurance companies, for the protection and betterment of the employes.

ORCHARD WILL BE HANGED, SAYS LEGAL CHIEF

BOISE, Idaho, July 19.—Prosecutor Hawley will begin the State's argument to the jury to-day in the case of William D. Haywood, secretary of the Western Federation of Miners, charged with the killing of former Governor Steunenberg. The line he must take will depend on Judge Wood's ruling on the above meeting of the alleged anti-labor union conspiracy among mine owners in Idaho and Colorado.

Attorneys Darrow and Richardson, for Haywood, made strong pleas yesterday for the retention of this evidence in the record, but the feeling is that the judge will order it stricken out as irrelevant. The issue is of vital importance to Haywood and an adverse ruling will greatly cripple his case.

"One thing is certain," said Attorney-General Bagley, in an interview last night, "Orchard will be hanged no matter how the Haywood case may go. He has not been promised humunity and if he had it has confessed to thirteen murders outside the State of Idaho. Even should the prosecuting authorities take the initiative in these cases there are plenty of people with an interest in seeing that he is brought to justice."

TRYING TO GET WARSHIPS ON OLD HOME WEEK

Bay State Senators and Congressman Peters Appeal to War Department.

PREPARATIONS ARE RUSHED

Senators Lodge and Crane and Representative Andrew J. Peters are doing everything possible to induce the War Department to send some warships to Boston during Old Home Week.

Because of the naval manoeuvres which have been arranged for, the War Department has announced that it cannot send any vessels to Boston, but the Senator and Congressman Peters hope to have some of the dates changed so that the ships can come.

A Massachusetts delegation may be sent to Oyster Bay to get the President to have the ships ordered to Boston.

Arrangements for the Old Home week celebration are being vigorously pushed ahead.

The civic and trades parade will be the larger of the two parades, and will have Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A. (retired), at its head.

Lieutenant Molloy in Command.

Lieutenant James Lee Molloy, battalion quartermaster of the Ninth Regiment, M. V. M., and Boer war veteran, has been appointed chief commander under Major John J. Sullivan of the second division.

Director Anderson and his associates have taken steps toward having a list on file of the lodging houses and other places in the city where visitors can be accommodated during Old Home Week. Postal cards are being sent to all those who have made applications to have rooms listed for the week, and on a return postal card the proprietors of the different places are requested to state how many they can accommodate, the situation and description of the rooms and the prices per day and per week. The lists will close on July 20 and absolutely no attention will be paid to any other form of application.

The wheelmen are figuring on having a pretty good time on the last day of the celebration, August 3. At 3 o'clock they will assemble in Copley square for a run at a moderate pace to the reservoir, taking the course by way of Beacon street and the boulevard, so familiar to the older riders. At 8 o'clock in the evening there will be a vaudeville entertainment in Potter Hall, No. 177 Huntington avenue, which will be absolutely free to those procuring tickets, which will be distributed at the headquarters in Mechanics Building after 8 o'clock on the day of the run.

The Sons of Veterans will keep open house during the week at their headquarters, No. 1,101 Washington street.

Welcome on Water Front.

The Committee on Illumination announced the fact to-day that it is preparing a monster electric welcome, to be placed on the water front, so that Boston's welcome to home-comers will be seen by sea as well as by land.

The location selected for the big electric sign on the water front is on the roof of the headquarters of the fire station at Central Wharf. Its letters three feet high, containing many small electric bulbs, will be read: "Welcome to Boston Old Home Week."

Other points which will be illuminated will include the Bunker Hill Monument, the Evacuation Monument in South Boston, Dewey Square and the Common. With everything complete, as it is expected it will be, the electric current will be turned on in every display on the evening of Saturday, July 27, and will continue for a period of eight days.

BOY DROWNS AS WATER WINGS SLIP

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 19.—When a pair of tightly corked glass cans, tied together with a rope, a device invented by eleven-year-old Bernard Lannon to support him while learning to swim, slipped off over the lad's shoulders while he was paddling in Benedict Pond the little chap sank into a deep hole and drowned before aid could reach him. The body was recovered.

RAILROAD MEN GO, AT HEIGHT OF BUSYSEASON

NEW POLICY A PUZZLE.

Special to the Boston American.

BROCKTON, July 19.—Despite the fact that this is the busiest season of the year for the handling of trunks and general baggage is concerned the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad has begun a campaign of retrenchment in the discharge of many station and freight handling employees at places along the Plymouth division of the road.

The station forces at Abington, North Abington, Whitman, South Hanson and other smaller stations have been reduced right at a time of year when the largest forces of help seem to be necessary. No reason is given by the railroad officials and employes of the road are puzzled as to the reason for the policy.

Man Dropped at Abington.

At Abington where two men were necessary to handle the business of the company, one man has just been discharged and the remaining employe doesn't know but that he is expected to stay at the station from before 6 o'clock in the morning until after the last train at midnight. Nine men were employed at North Abington and the orders compelled the discharge of one of these. At Whitman, one of the busiest stations on the Plymouth division, where twelve men were worked hard from morning to night, ten men under the new regime are expected to do the work. One of three men at South Hanson and Burrage was discharged.

No Reason for Discharges.

One of the railroad employes at Whitman said: "Last Friday, H. B. Wadsworth, baggage master here, received instructions to discharge two of his help immediately. No reason was given. With an increase of $150 over last Summer's business at Whitman, I do not see the reason for this as there is plenty of work here for the full force.

"An increase of $1.35 a week was given the operators and the railroad then takes away the messenger and discharges two men, thereby saving from $90 to $40 a week. The only way I can figure it out is that expenses are being retrenched."

PROBE MYSTERY OF $30,000 FIRE IN RESTAURANT

Fire of a mysterious origin in the basement of the restaurant of E. M. Shoonhan, at Nos. 241 and 243 Huntington avenue, early to-day, spread to the restaurant on the first floor and gutted the place, causing a loss of nearly $30,000.

Two alarms were turned in owing to the proximity of the Emerson College of Oratory and other buildings and residential properties.

The fire was discovered at 4:40 o'clock in the kitchen of the restaurant, which was closed at 10 o'clock last night, when everything was in its usual order, according to Proprietor Shoonhan.

The flames spread quickly to the upper floor, and the firemen had a hard fight to prevent its spread to the second floor, where Chickering Hall is located.

The restaurant loss is placed at nearly $25,000. The loss on the building will reach $5,000. The latter is owned by the estate of William H. Hill.

An investigation will be made to ascertain what caused the blaze.

WOMAN ACCUSED AS AID TO MURDER AT MOB'S MERCY

GERMAN CROWDS ROUSED BY HAU COURT SCENE FIGHT POLICE TO CAPTURE GIRL.

CARLSRUHE, Germany, July 19.—Charging her with having aided the murderer of her mother, heaping insults of the vilest sort upon her, a mob outside the court house where the trial of Carl Hau is in progress, made a determined attack to-day upon Olga Molitor, daughter of the prisoner's alleged victim. Scores of police hastily summoned to protect the girl had a terrible fight to drive back the mobs. When her clothes nearly torn from her body, her hair dishevelled and her face scratched and bleeding, the young woman finally escaped to the protection of a house. There the police stood guard until the mob was dispersed.

Altogether it was one of the most sensational lynchings enacted in a great murder trial in Germany.

Feeling runs high in certain ranks of society against Fraulien Molitor because of the aid she is charged with giving Hau in his trial on a charge of killing his mother-in-law, Frau Molitor.

Attacked by Mob.

Her appearance in the street, as she left the courthouse, was the signal for the attack on her by the mob which had been unable to gain access to the crowded courtroom. Shouting insults did not long satisfy the crowd. There was a rush for her, and but for the protection of the police she would have fared badly.

Aroused by the resistance of the officers, the angry people struggled with even greater violence, however, to wreak vengeance on the object of their fury.

When she finally reached the shelter of a house where she could seek refuge Miss Molitor almost collapsed, so unnerved was she by her experience.

Rebuked by Court.

The street demonstration followed a sensational scene in the court room in which the girl was one of the principal actors. Hau told Judge Ellen that he had sent the mysterious telegram signed "Olga" to Frau Molitor, asking her to come to Paris, so that she would take Olga home. He said his wife was jealous of her sister and constantly created scenes.

Olga was recalled and she verified this declaration by the prisoner.

Judge Eller manifested displeasure and asserted the explanation was weak. He warned Olga what would be the consequences of giving perjured testimony. A sharp passage at arms followed between the judge, prosecutor Bletcher and Dietz, Hau's attorney. The judge intimated that of perjured testimony evidently gave the cue to the crowd which later attacked Olga.

TELEGRAPHERS IN CHICAGO TIRE OF FRISCO DELAY

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CHICAGO, July 19.—The Chicago telegraph operators who belong to the union, tired of futile "negotiations" at San Francisco, have taken matters into their own hands.

The local executive board has called for a mass meeting, to be held Sunday. At that meeting, unless unexpected developments occur, it seems certain that a strike will be voted on.

"I don't see any possible loophole by which a strike may be averted now," said Secretary Wesley Russell of the national union this afternoon. The men are all willing to strike. They feel a big sentiment against the telegraph companies, and when they are given an opportunity to vote on the matter there will be no two ways of voting with them."

Probabilities of a strike in Chicago were borne out by a telegram received from President Small at San Francisco, saying: "The striking commercial telegraphers at a union meeting yesterday refused by a standing vote to accept concessions as framed by their National executive committee. The Western Union and Postal companies' concessions were declined."

It is expected that Samuel Gompers will be in Chicago to take part in a conference on the arrival of President Small. The conference, in view of action decided upon for Sunday, will pertain of the nature of a council of war as some of the local officials expects that there will be any excuse or opportunity for peace.

DESERTED WIFE FINDS HUSBAND ABOUT TO WED

LOCATES MAN WHO WAS SAID TO BE ABOUT TO MARRY HEIRESS.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Lured, according to his wife, by the prospect of becoming wealthy through the medium of a rich girl's family, Ernest Kroon was lodged in the East Fifty-First Street station yesterday, almost on the eve of having planned to marry again.

Aided by the girl, Kroon is declared to have determined to dope, Mrs. Kroon did some remarkable detective work. Although sleuths failed to find the man while he was within two miles of Manhattan, the woman's tenacity did what their skill failed to accomplish and the arrest is the result.

Deserted His Family.

The Kroons, who were married five years ago, and have two children, East Saginaw, Kroon, who is a decorator, and receives an excellent salary, deserted his family, but straight continued to send his wife money. He eluded her search for him, however, until, by a freak of fate, a reporter happened to talk with Mrs. Kroon about her plight and mentioned that as before 6 o'clock in Sea Cliff, L. I., and was reported to be engaged to Miss Jessie Brown, daughter a wealthy merchant of St. Albans, L. I.

Children Cried "Papa."

Mr. Brown has a fine Summer home at Seacliff, and his daughter stays there during the warm season. Immediately the deserted wife hurried to the Long Island town and found her husband was boarding at Hoon's restaurant. With her children bedding her hands, she entered the place and confronted the man, who was at dinner. The children cried "Papa," and ran to their father, who remained unperturbed until Mrs. Kroon said: "When are you coming home? I hear you're going to be married again."

Kroon quickly arose and hurried out of the room. His wife lost track of him, but did not give up the search. After a few days she found Miss Brown and the two had a long chat, the girl promising to aid the wife in the hunt.

Duped Girl Aids Wife.

Miss Brown visited Mrs. Kroon with her mother and assisted her in caring for the children. The women obtained a summons for Kroon, but failed to locate him until a few days ago. Mrs. Kroon, figuring that her brother-in-law John would have sympathy for her, appealed to him. He soon had her where her husband was.

Court Officer Charles Morris was consulted, a warrant was obtained and a trip was made to Richmond Hill, yesterday. Kroon was found there. He had been working.

"My wife had nothing to complain of," said the prisoner. "I sent her money, and was doing the best I could for her."

When told that he had intended to become a bigamist Kroon became silent as a mummy.

"Human Spider" Gallops Up Vertical Rope Just as Easily as Walking Along the Street

"Monkey on a Stick," is what they call the Hindoo climber at Paragon Park, who astounds all visitors by galloping up an almost vertical rope attached to the top of the illuminated tower, making one of the many live out-door features at the Electric City by the Sea.

A monkey on a stick is what his gyrations remind one of. His professional title is the "Human Spider." His toes are so abnormally developed that he can pull a three-inch nail from a pine plank with one foot. No one attempts to learn his real name.

Some have thought the Human Spider a South Sea Islander from his brown skin and peculiar cast of countenance, but his home is in India.

If the Human Spider learned his art from monkeys, the monkeys had nothing over him in the way of rope climbing. And he hangs on his fingers, neck, toes, with equal facility.

They say at Paragon Park he is at least ninety years of age. This is borne out by his wizened features and white curly hair.

Being unable to either talk or understand English, the Human Spider grants no interviews on these subjects. He just eats his meals, gets his sleep and between times gyrates on his hundred foot rope.

GIRLS' PARENTS FORM A POSSE TO HUNT FIEND

Attack On Second Brooklyn Lass Arouses Angry Fathers to Search City.

NO ARREST BY THE POLICE

NEW YORK, July 19.—The police of the outlying districts of Brooklyn have reported an attack on little Ethel Tellover, at Bath Beach, by a man, who they say they have reason to believe is one of the two who nearly killed eight-year-old Olga Schramek on Tuesday, in the Dyker Heights section of Brooklyn, where the Schramek family lives.

They affirm the theory that this man lurks constantly in that section for the purpose of assailing girls, and that girls who go out alone will be in danger until he is captured. It is also believed that this man has companions.

On account of the failure of the police to make any arrests, the fathers, brothers and neighbors of little girls throughout Dyker Heights have made themselves self-appointed police and will endeavor to do what the police cannot do.

Girl Escapes From Man.

Police Captain Kulpe of the Hamilton street station said:

"I have just heard from Bath Beach that a little girl named Ethel Tellover, narrowly escaped from a man who approached her much as Mr. Schramek's two children were by the leader of the two men who attacked Olga. The Tellover girl got a good look at him, and the account which she gives of his manners and appearance allies well with the descriptions that Olga Schramek has put in our hands.

"I think now we may be able to end the miscreant. But if he is not shot by some citizen or ambushed by some officer soon, I fear there will be repetitions of the crimes already laid at his door, for I am certain we are trying to cope with a man more dangerous than a mad dog—a creature who preys on mere babies."

Predicts Arrest.

After looking over the latest reports from his detectives, Captain Kulpe said: "We will have some one under arrest for the attack upon little Olga Schramek by Saturday night. Detectives are working on the case night and day and have reached the point where I feel justified in stating that there will be an arrest."

Members of the Dyker Heights Club have offered a reward of $1,500 for the capture of the child's assailants.

At the Schramek home it is said that the child is improving and will probably recover.

TRAIN HURLS MAN TO DEATH ON CAR TRACKS

George Michins, aged twenty-five, of No. 50 Poole street, Woburn, while walking from his home in Winchester, on the railroad tracks this morning was struck by the steps of a passing train and hurled a distance of twenty-five feet.

Passengers on the rear car saw the accident, and the train—in a 5:55 from Woburn to Boston—was stopped and backed up to where the man lay. He was taken to Boston and sent to the Massachusetts General Hospital, where he died soon after.

The accident was an unusual one. Michins had left the Boston train to let the train go by, and in the last car was passing he misjudging the speed of the train, jumped forward in expecting to land on the track just behind the train. Instead, he was caught by the rear steps.

Michins worked in a cannery at Woburn.

SEARCH WOODS FOR LUNATIC

PROVIDENCE, July 19.—The first clue to the whereabouts of Frank Weeden, who for the second time within a month escaped from the State Hospital for the Insane at Howard on Wednesday afternoon, was afforded through a man said to answer the description of the escaped lunatic was seen crossing lots on the Foster farm near Crompton village just before dark last night.

Chief Higbee led members of the police force in search of the woods on the Foster, but failed to locate Weeden after several hours' work.

HUNT ROBBERS IN BAFFLING L ROAD MYSTERY

Police Today Seek Thieves Who Got $4,500 by Bold Daylight Crime.

PAY STRONG BOX STOLEN

Today, the police force of Boston is using its utmost resources to solve the baffling mystery of how bold criminals, yesterday, at about daylight, in the heart of the business district, on Milk street, opposite the offices of the Boston Elevated Railroad Company, robbed a wagon of the Company of a strong box containing $4,500 and got away safely without leaving a trace of their identity.

No more daring robbery has ever been perpetrated in Boston. Edward Foana, paymaster of the Medford division of the Elevated Road, was in charge of the money and had deposited it on the seat of the wagon preparatory to taking it to the Medford car barns to pay off the men of his division. He turned away to talk with two fellow employees of the road, and, in an interval of about two minutes, the strong box with the treasure vanished mysteriously from its resting place.

TOLEDO, O., July 19.—The workhouse sentence imposed upon the two bridge trust agents, the twenty-three Toledo lumbermen, and the imposition of the $1,000 fines against the local brickman by Judge Morris in Common Pleas Court for violation of the Valentine anti-trust law, has been indefinitely suspended by the Circuit Court.

BIG SURPRISE PROMISED IN REALTY PROBE

Committee Preparing Bankruptcy Petition for Providence Company.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 19.—The Investigating committee appointed by the creditors of the Home Realty Company is meeting to-day to take preliminary steps towards drawing up a petition to Judge Brown of the United States District Court to declare that company bankrupt. The creditors at their meeting yesterday voted the committee with full power to proceed and act according to their best judgment which, it is stated, is in favor of forcing the company into bankruptcy.

The question that confronts the creditors is whether the United States Court will entertain the petition. There is a division of opinion among lawyers as to whether or not the Home Realty Company can, because of the nature of its business, be forced through bankruptcy. Under the provision of the act, manufacturing, trading and mercantile corporations alone are subject to it. The creditors insist upon it as the only way of knowing how the company manipulated its business deals. The channels through which the mortgages have been manipulated is another matter concerning which they are eager for enlightenment.

Attorney John Murdock, representing the Atlantic National Bank, one of the creditors, intimates that if the bankruptcy proceedings are allowed the evidence will open the eyes of Providence people as to certain business practices that have been in vogue in that city for some time.

It appears from the supplementary statement of the Realty Company that there is due to it on accounts of the contracts that had appeared as $32,000 in assets the sum of $11,107, but to offset this there is $10,524, which the company is obligated to pay because of these contracts, so that there are practically no assets at all.

ROBBERS START FIRE TO CONCEAL CRIME

PAWTUCKET, R. I., July 19.—That an attempt had been made to burn a house to hide its robbery was discovered by the firemen when they were called to the residence of George Armitage at No. 10½ Benedict street. The traces of the robbery were plainly apparent. A gold watch and other valuables were missing. Fires had been started in mattresses in four different rooms.

PILES

"I have suffered with piles for thirty-six years, the last ago last April I began taking Cascarets for constipation. In the course of a week I noticed no piles began to disappear and in two months' time they did not trouble me at all. Cascarets cured me and I have never had a sick day since. I am entirely cured and feel like a new man." George Snyder, Napoleon, O.

TALK WITH MRS. EDDY DISPELS ALL MYSTERY

AGED SCIENCE LEADER TELLS NOTED WRITER GREED OF GOLD INSPIRED SUIT.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The mystery surrounding Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy is now completely dispelled. A distinguished writer who is not a Christian Scientist has made a visit to her Concord home. Here he saw the aged leader, had several long talks with her; she read aloud to him and she wrote him a letter with her own hand. The story of this remarkable visit is printed in the August number of the Cosmopolitan Magazine.

When the visitor entered Mrs. Eddy's room he saw beside a writing desk in an armchair a white-haired woman, who rose and walked forward, extending her hand in friendly greeting to the stranger. That was Mrs. Eddy, for whom many human beings in this world feel the deepest reverence and affection, and concerning whom others have thought it necessary or possible to write and to say unkind and untruthful things.

Her Hand Is Firm.

Mrs. Eddy is eighty-six years old. Her thick hair, snow white, curls about her forehead and temples. She is of medium height and very slender. She probably weighs less than one hundred pounds. But her figure is straight as she rises and walks forward. The grasp of her thin hand is firm; the hand does not tremble.

Mrs. Eddy's face is almost entirely free from wrinkles; the skin is very clear. Many a young woman would be proud to have it. The forehead is high and full, and the whole expression of the face combines benevolence with great strength of will. Mrs. Eddy has accumulated power in this world. She possesses it, she exercises it as she knows it. But it is a gentle power, and it is possessed by a gentle, diffident and modest woman.

"Greed of Gold," She Says.

Women will want to know what Mrs. Eddy wore. The writer regrets that he cannot tell. With some women you see the dress; with Mrs. Eddy you see only the face, the very earnest eyes, and the beautiful, quiet expression that only age and thought can give to a human face. She wore a white lace collar around her neck, no jewelry of any kind and a very simple dress. That much is remembered.

Mrs. Eddy spoke of the now famous lawsuit brought against her. Asked why the lawsuit had been started, seeking to take away from her control of her money and of her actions, Mrs. Eddy replied in a deep, earnest voice that could easily have been heard all over the largest of her churches:

"Greed of gold, young man. They are not interested in me. I am sorry to say, but it is my belief, and in the desire to control that. They say they want to help me. They never tried to help me when I was working hard years ago and when help would have been so welcome."

Mind Remarkably Clear.

The interviewer was most anxious to form an opinion as to whether Mrs. Eddy was competent to understand business affairs and manage them. Therefore, detailed questions were asked with an intimation that in the case of a woman of Mrs. Eddy's age would be most unusual, and unnecessary.

Mrs. Eddy's mind on all points brought out was perfectly clear, and her answers were instantaneous. She explained in detail how impossible it was for those about her, even if they wished to, to control her or her fortune.

In the course of the afternoon the writer had three talks with Mrs. Eddy. Once, after the first talk ended, and again the second time Mrs. Eddy said that she had some other things to say.

Aside from the legal matters in which the next friends seek to cheapen her old age and her peace, Mrs. Eddy talked confidently of Christian Science matters.

Extraordinary Tone of Voice.

Mrs. Eddy's discussion of her business matters lasted for at least half an hour. There was no weakness of mind, body or voice or body. The quality of Mrs. Eddy's voice is really extraordinary. The writer picked up a periodical, the Christian Science Journal for June, 1907, and asked Mrs. Eddy to read from it, having heard of the quality of her voice which had done so much in influencing her following long ago.

The day after the interview Mrs. Eddy sent to the writer with a friendly note her recent writings. These "miscellaneous writings" have been studied with interest by the writer, who is not a believer in Christian Science, but a believer in material science, in non-sectarian government, and in the absolute right of Christian Scientists to believe whatever they choose.

PRESIDENT AND ROYALTY WILL AID THE SCOTS

Giant Celebration Planned By Charitable Society in Honor of 250th Anniversary.

BIG MEETING IS HELD

The Scots Charitable Society celebrates this year the 250th anniversary of its founding. This event will be observed on a stupendous scale. At the next meeting of the society it is expected that the various committees will be appointed. President Roosevelt, Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, the Prince of Wales and many of the most prominent men of the two continents are said to be taking an interest in the plans for the celebration.

Seventy-five new members were admitted to the society at the largest meeting in the history of the organization last evening in International Hall, Dudley street, Roxbury. President Alexander MacGregor congratulated the members upon their active interest in the welfare of the society and he announced that the society's affairs were never before in such a flourishing condition as at the present time. The total membership is now 650.

Report of Charities.

Treasurer George D. Milne announced that $1,800 had already been expended in performing works of charity this year. The society endorsed the action of the president and board of governments in having a tablet placed on the Provincetown monument, commemorating the landing of the Pilgrims. At the dedication of this monument the society will take a prominent part.

Unusual interest was manifested in the proposed festival in honor of St. Andrew to be held in November. It is the intention of the Scots to have the festivities on that day surpass in pomp and ceremony all previous celebrations.

BOY BARRED BY NEW LAW

Had Mrs. Barbara Eintzman brought her eight-year-old son, Ferdinand, to this country nineteen days ago he would have been admitted with her to go to join his father at Lincoln, Ill. But when Mrs. Eintzman, who arrived in the Cunarder Ivernia yesterday was examined by the immigration officials to-day it was found that her boy was an imbecile and that under the law that went into effect July 1 it was impossible to admit him to this country even under bond. When his mother was told that he would have to be returned to Germany she broke down and cried.

CROSSED OCEAN TO WED CHOICE

LYNN, July 19.—With the marriage of Miss Edith Boddy of Bradford, England, and John E. Jordan of 31 Monitor street, to take place at the rectory of St. Stephen's Church to-night, is revealed a romance of love which had its inception in Bradford four years ago, when a chance acquaintance ripened into love and resulted in the engagement of the young people.

Unaccompanied by relative, or friend, Miss Boddy, who is a singer of repute, well known in Bradford social circles, left Liverpool July 9 to cross the ocean that she might become the wife of Jordan.

MRS. GOULD TO APPEAL FROM COURT'S RULING

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, July 19.—In behalf of Mrs. Catherine Clemmons Gould, her lawyer, Clarence J. Shearn, to-day said he would appeal from the recent decision of Supreme Court Justice McCall, ordering her to strike from her complaint in her suit against Howard Gould for separation certain allegations as scandalous and irrelevant.

The allegations which Justice McCall ruled out were:

"That in August, in 1906 the defendant, Howard Gould caused his agent, one Malloy, to change the lock upon the mailbox used by the plaintiff (Mrs. Gould) for the transmission of her mail received at the post office at Port Washington, L. I., and procured and caused said Malloy to open, read and intercept sealed letters addressed to the plaintiff and to report to the defendant the contents of the same.

"That during the year 1904, 1905, 1906 and down to the commencement of this action, the defendant (Howard Gould) associated with divers women of bad character so openly as to insult and humiliate and bring shame and contumely upon the plaintiff."

STATE TO PUT N. Y. TRANSIT TRUST ON RACK

NEW YORK, July 19.—Acting on the petition of the Independence League, urging an immediate investigation of the Interborough Metropolitan merger, the Public Service Commission has adopted resolutions providing that the entire Transit Trust be placed upon the rack immediately and probed from top to bottom.

The investigation is to be public. It will cover all of the transit lines in Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn, and the trolley lines in Queens which are controlled by Belmont. It will involve the Subway, surface and elevated service.

After the adoption of the resolution the entire question was referred to Chairman Willcox, with power to take whatever action he deemed necessary to obtain the results desired. Commissioner Willcox announced that he would take the matter up at once.

The resolution calling for the investigation is as follows:

Resolved, That this commission shall forthwith investigate and examine the several conditions of the Interborough Metropolitan Company, and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, and of all companies controlled and operated in the interest either of the said companies, their organization, their franchises, and the manner in which their lines, owned, leased, controlled or operated, are managed, conducted and operated, including the adequacy, security and accommodation afforded by their service, with respect to their compliances with all provisions of law, and also for the purpose of determining as the result of such investigation whether the said corporations do in fact illegally and as monopolies control and operate the several properties now under their control and operated in their interests for the purpose of determining what is the capacity of each of the individual corporations so owned and controlled to render adequate service as required by law, and for the purpose of determining and performing the duties of this board in the premises.

That all of the different aeries in the State be required to affiliate with the State organization was the substance of the most important resolution adopted by the convention.

Another resolution cut down the size of the membership for representation on the floor of the convention from three hundred to two hundred.

The other officers elected to serve for the ensuing year are: Worthy State Vice-President, Frank A. Brown of North Attleboro; Worthy State Secretary, John J. NEW STYLES IN HATS? HUH! WHO SAID SO?

THE FASHIONS IN HATS FROM TAD'S POINT OF VIEW

Here Are Cooling Breakfast Dishes for the Hot Days

FISH is always much liked as a hot weather diet. This may be soused or pickled and served cold, or fried or baked and served hot. Then again, rissoles, croquettes, cakes," scallops, "toasts" and fritters are very popular, and they all provide an excellent means of using up the many scraps of meat, poultry or game which will accumulate even in the best-regulated larder. At this season eggs should be cheap, and as there is such a variety of ways of serving them, they are always a valuable friend to the cook and a useful "stand-by."

It is a wise plan to have a dish of fruit, either fresh, or stewed, always on the breakfast table, while many people much enjoy fresh salads.

You will see that the greater part of each of the following dishes may be prepared, if not actually cooked, over-night, so they will not entail more work on the cook in the early hours:

Welsh Fish Cake

Required: About a pound of any cold boiled fish; six ounces of cold potatoes; six ounces of breadcrumbs; one onion; a bunch of sweet herbs; salt and pepper; one teaspoonful of chopped parsley; one egg; breadcrumbs for coating; one pint of water.

Put the water in a saucepan with the bones and trimmings of the fish, the onion, herbs and salt. Let these stew steadily from one and a half to two hours.

Chop the fish finely and mix with it the mashed potatoes, crumbs, parsley, and salt and pepper to taste, beat up the egg and add enough of it to bind the mixture.

Shape it into one round cake, brush it over with beaten egg and cover it with crumbs.

Melt about an ounce of dripping in a frying pan. When a blue smoke rises from it put in the cake and fry it a golden brown.

Strain the fish stock, pour it half at a time into the pan, and let the cake stew gently from fifteen to twenty minutes. Serve it very hot, garnished with fried parsley and slices of lemon.

This cake may be heated over and over again, either in a frying pan with a little dripping or in the oven, should it not be finished at one meal.

Herring Au Gratin

Required: Three or more herring, two ounces of breadcrumbs, one ounce of butter, two teaspoonfuls of chopped parsley, salt and pepper. Wash and fillet the herring. Butter an "au gratin" dish or pie dish, shake in a thick layer of crumbs, a dust of salt, pepper and chopped parsley. Now lay in the fillets of fish, then more parsley and lastly crumbs. On these put the rest of the butter in small pieces, bake in a moderate oven about a quarter of an hour. If liked two or three tomatoes may be sliced and put with the herring.

Rissoles of Cold Meat

Required: Pastry.

Half a pound of any cold meat or poultry.

Quarter of a pond of ham.

A little sauce or thick gravy.

Egg and breadcrumbs.

Salt and pepper.

Chop the meat and ham finely. Add to them from four to six teaspoonfuls of sauce or gravy, and salt and pepper to taste.

Shape the mixture into small balls, press these slightly into ovals. Roll the pastry out very thinly, steam it into rounds a large enough to entirely cover the meat.

Place a ball of meat on each round of pastry, wet round the edge of the pastry, and fold one-half over the meat, pressing the two edges of pastry together. Brush each over with beaten egg and cover with crumbs. Fry them in plenty of fat from which a bluish smoke is rising. Drain them well on paper, and serve them garnished with fried parsley. For the sake of variety, finely broken-up vermicelli may be useful instead of the crumbs, or a teaspoonful each of chopped parsley and onion may be added to the mixture.

Meat Toasts

Required: Four ounces of cold meat of any kind.

One ounce of butter.

One teaspoonful of chopped parsley.

One teaspoonful of chopped onion.

Two tomatoes or a little tomato sauce.

Neat squares of hot, buttered toast.

Two eggs. One tablespoonful of milk.

Chop the meat finely, add to it the parsley and onion.

Melt the butter in a saucepan, when it is hot pour in the beaten eggs; add the milk and a dust of salt and pepper; stir this over until it becomes creamy. Add the meat and the tomatoes, having first rubbed them through a sieve. When the mixture is quite hot, heap it on the pieces of toast, sprinkle it with a little chopped parsley and serve.

Veal and ham in equal proportions are excellent for this dish; when using veal, add a little grated lemon rind.

EVENING DRESS FOR BEACH OR COUNTRY

DRESS OF BLACK AND WHITE DOTTED SWISS

BY GRACE HYMAN

NO material is prettier for a useful Summer gown than black and white dotted Swiss muslin. It requires very little trimming and is most charming when simply made.

That model has the very full pleated skirt, with three deep tucks running around. The waist is crossed in surplice fashion, opening over a V or ruffles of black Valenciennes lace. The very short sleeves follow the same lines with a full ruffle of lace to finish them and a band and bow of stiff black ribbon. The girdle is also of black ribbon, though a pretty, bright-colored flowered ribbon may be worn as well if one prefers a little color.

Expert Advice on Health and Beauty

TOWELS and wash cloths of silk are considered by many women necessary in the correct treatment of the skin. They are without doubt better than coarse linen or cotton, though the finest and softest of linen would serve the same purpose.

There is nothing better than the thinnest cheese cloth to use on the face. Get the kind that usually sells for 5 cents a yard. Anything better in quality does not answer the purpose so well.

The point is to apply only the smoothest textures to the skin. A soft, velvety skin is the result of most delicate handling. Many a pimple, adopting as a skin treatment with far too great frequency. It is a severe method and many times it is used when altogether unnecessary. Its essential purpose is to clean.

The extreme heat opens every pore of the skin and the moisture softens the tissues, so that dirt of every description is completely removed. But at the same time the skin is rendered extremely tender, and if the treatment be repeated too frequently it becomes permanently so. Further, the heat relaxes the nerves of the skin and they lose their vigor. So in time the tissues grow lifeless and thin.

When necessary (which is only on rare occasions) steaming is a good thing. An easy way to conduct the operation is to make a hollow cylinder of a towel, pinning it together with safety pins. Let the top opening be large enough to cover the face from the forehead at the roots of the hair, past the ears, and under the chin. Hold the face well back, opening the lower end of the cylinder covering a small basin of scalding water. From five to fifteen minutes of this is enough.

CAMOMILE TEA FOR HAIR.

DEAR PROFESSOR:

My hair is a kind of nondescript color, neither brown nor black, but it has a slight reddish cast, and if I could do something to accentuate the red it would give some character to the hair. Will you kindly tell me of something that will bring about the desired result?

ANXIOUS.

If you wash your hair in camomile tea after the shampoo it will take on a decided reddish tinge and will brighten a great deal.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Hair is growing above my mouth like a mustache. Will you please give me some simple and quick formula for removing it? I never used to have pimples on my face, but now they are breaking out and it is very disagreeable to have them. Also I have a few freckles since I was a little girl and have tried to get rid of them, but have failed entirely. Will you please give me some simple formula for both the pimples and the freckles?

B. K.

THE electric needle is the only thing that will permanently remove hair from the face, but if you wish to use a depilatory you might try the following: Orpiment, one part; starch and quicklime, each ten parts. Powder the orpiment and starch together and then add the quicklime. Make a little in a paste with water and spread on a paste over the hairy parts. Let it remain a very few minutes, from one to five, as the hairs are stubborn or the flesh is sensitive; remove with a blunt knife, bathe face in hot water at once and anoint with a little cold cream. In no case leave the paste on until it irritates. See to your diet first in treating for pimples, and then dab them as they appear with peroxide of hydrogen. If your liver is in good condition and you avoid starchy foods, sweets and pastry you should get rid of the pimples. Then keep the pores clean by means of a face brush and hot water and soap at least a week, using a cleansing cream instead of water the rest of the time. If your freckles are very stubborn you might try the following remedy which is also used to remove brown spots: Salicylic acid, 60 grains; bay rum, 4 ounces. Apply night and morning and if the face gets rough apply a little glycerine or starch.

(Will A. B. C. please note the above?)

"A PRINCE OF SINNERS"

By E. Phillips Oppenheim, Author of "The Malefactor," Etc., Etc.

Synopsis

KINGSTON BROOKS, a young solicitor of Mecklenburg, England, is selected, through the good offices of Peter Bullsom, as political agent for the Radical candidate for Parliament. He is overjoyed at his luck. That night he dines at Bullsom's home, meeting Mary Scott, Bullsom's niece, and Sophia and Selina, his daughters. He is much taken with Mary, but dislikes the others. The next day, a strange caller tells him of the death of his father, of which Kingston never had heard in the past year. The caller is no less than as the Marquis of Arranmore, Mr. Bullsom's friend and political opponent, and the head of his girls, Lord Arranmore.

Miss Scott meets Kingston on the street, and they walk together. Kingston is overjoyed at the morning's work. While in the restaurant the Marquis of Arranmore and his daughter see the two, and glances at Mary. He thanks her for his family name, which she has given to Kingston. Mr. Scott returns to his party. Mrs. Scott scores Kingston again at a political meeting. They discuss Lord Arranmore. She says that Kingston is a fool, and has just given Kingston to the face of her city.

Mrs. Bullsom asks Kingston to look after his estates in legal capacity, during until Kingston can return. Kingston finds that his father's death, of which he never received notice, has caused Arranmore unusually embarrassment, and Kingston accepts the position. Lord Arranmore speaks of Mrs. Scott, and says she is the image of a man he once knew. Kingston discovers Sydney Holmes, and the latter calls Hendon, the candidate for Parliament, a blackguard.

At a dinner given by Lord Arranmore Kingston meets Lady Arranmore and her daughter Enid. Selina is also present.

"What! Our Mr. Kingston Brooks?" Selina exclaimed.

"It's Brooks, right enough," Mr. Bullsom explained. "I called at his office myself today, and they told me that he was out for the day. Well, that tickes me."

Mary, who was reading a magazine in a secluded corner, looked up.

"I saw Mr. Brooks in the morning," she remarked. "He told me that he was going to Exton to dine and sleep."

Selina looked at her cousin sharply.

"You saw Mr. Brooks?" she repeated. "Where?"

"I met him," Mary answered, coolly. "He told me that Lord Arranmore had been very kind to him."

"Why didn't you tell us?" Louise asked, in a manner hardly likely to encourage confidences.

"It didn't strike me as being anything extraordinary," Mary said.

"The hell!" Mrs. Bullsome exclaimed, with a little gasp. "Some one has come."

"Well, if they have there's nothing to be frightened about," Mr. Bullsom retorted. "Ain't we expecting them to come? Don't look so scared, Sarah; it's not a book, or something. Why, bless my soul, you're all of a trimble."

"I can't help it, Percy," Mrs. Bullsom replied, nervously. "I don't know these people properly a bit, and I'm sure I shall do something foolish. Selina, be sure you say something when I'm to come away and——"

"Mr. Kingston Brooks."

Brooks, ushered in by a neighboring greengrocer, entered upon a scene of unexpected splendor. Selina and her sister were gorgeous in green and pink respectively.

Brooks endeavored to secure a chair near Mary, which attempt Selina adroitly foiled.

"We've been reading all about your grandfather, Mr. Brooks," she explained. "What a beautiful day you must have had at Exton."

Brooks looked puzzled.

"Mary was reading," he declared, "I wanted to see you, Miss Scott," he added, turning to Mary. "I think that we can arrange that date for the lecture now. How long is Exton to dine and sleep?"

"Admirably," Mary answered.

"A Remarkable War"

There was an influx of guests. Mrs. Bullsom, reduced to a state of chaotic nervousness, pushed Mary into the back ground as possible by her daughters, and Mr. Bullsom, banished from the hearth rug by Mrs. Bullsom, found himself plunged into a conversation with Mr. Seventon on the weather. Brooks leaned over toward Mary.

The solemn process of sampling doubtful mutton to the tune of a forced conversation was got through without disaster. Mrs. Bullsom felt her flat face break out into little beads of perspiration. She would like to have seen everybody go twice for mutton, but dared not to expound. She had already recited the story of Kingston Brooks' good fortune and of Mr. Bullsom's honors and in a casual way mentioned his early patronage of that remarkable young man. And once meeting his eye he raised his glass.

How We Torture Ourselves for Silly Fashion's Sake

Do you know—that wearing a fashionable collar necklace is likely to cause goitre?

That shoes are sometimes the cause of paralysis?

That more than 90 per cent. of the women who are tortured by headache, vertigo, dyspepsia and even more serious ills, suffer because they wear corsets?

That most cases of baldness result from wearing a fashionable hat?

That a peculiar fashion—fad of civilization—is attacking the teeth of millions of persons?

How hats cause baldness; why some shampoos are dangerous, and the mischief fashionable collars may do?

Just how lacing pushes up the liver, displaces the spleen and pancreas, squeezes the stomach and lungs.

Girl's Daring Leap Drives 2 Armed Burglars from House in Affright

Miss Bessie Reed Plunges Through Screen at Gun's Point.

THREW BOTTLE AT THIEF

Robber's Lantern Broken as He Flees in Fear of Young Woman.

As a result of jumping through a screened second story window in her efforts to scare away two desperate burglars, one of whom had covered her with a revolver, Miss Bessie Reed, a pretty Dorchester girl, is dangerously ill at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Martin Reed, at Hampden Corners, Me., where she is spending the Summer.

At 1 o'clock Wednesday morning two masked men entered Mrs. Reed's house, and after ransacking the rooms woke up Miss Reed and a cousin, Miss Wales, and demanded money at the muzzles of their revolvers. The young women said they had none. One of the burglars then entered the room of Mrs. Reed, while the other kept Miss Bessie Reed and Miss Wales covered.

Maddened by the screams of her aunt, who is seventy years old, Miss Reed, despite the threatening gun, made a sudden dash from bed and jumped clear to the lawn, ten feet below, through the screened window, first throwing a water bottle at the head of the man with the lantern. The burglar's lantern was broken, and in the darkness and confusion the girl made her escape from the house and the burglars fled.

A gold watch and chain, the property of Mrs. Reed, were the only articles taken.

Miss Reed, Miss Florence Reed and Miss Wales are all of Dorchester.

Wilbur Reed, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Reed, was also in the house at the time of the burglary. While leaving the house the two burglars met Reed and kept him at bay with their revolvers.

LIPTON HAS ISSUED NO CUP CHALLENGE

LONDON, July 19.—Reports that Sir Thomas Lipton will again challenge for the America's cup, caused by the sailing of William Fife, the noted designer, for the United States, were denied to-day by Sir Thomas's secretary. Sir Thomas himself is taking a motor trip through the country. His secretary stated definitely, however, that he has issued no challenge. Fife, the secretary said, is on his way to attend the Canada cup races, and his trip to America has no connection with the America's cup.

WOMEN FIGHT BELMONT OVER RECTOR'S PAY

Rev. Jere Cooke's Elopement Comes Up in Church Meeting.

CALLS SALARY TOO SMALL

HAMPSTEAD, July 19.—Lively and picturesque was the debate that might between August Belmont, leading member of St. George's Episcopal Church, from the rectorate of which the Rev. Jere K. Cooke fled several months ago with a young girl, and a score of elderly women upon the question of adding $1,000 to the salary of the rector.

The church has no rector at present, and the question was whether, in calling an ambitious clergyman to preside over a parish of such wealth, the salary should be raised to $2,500 a year. Though the women were finally overwhelmed by the varied arguments and persuasion of Belmont, they made a vigorous protest against the increase. No formal vote was taken on the increase.

Rev. Mr. Cooke's Pay Too Small.

One of the most startling assertions by Belmont was that he had no doubt the fall of the Rev. Mr. Cooke had been due to the small salary he received.

"No man can take charge of this rectory, dress as he should, entertain and go on among his parishioners and get on in debt on $1,500 a year," said Belmont. "It is impossible. Only last Fall Mr. Cooke wrote me a letter, complaining of his small income and telling me he was greatly in debt. I sympathized with him, but I found it impossible to make members of the congregation look at the subject in the light I did.

That was one of the sharp things Belmont said to the women. Many of them sized up and took upon $1,000 as a small amount. Belmont's financial circumstances are different. The divergence of opinion arose from the fact that while he wealthy are willing to pay a larger salary to a preacher they attend the church only in the Summer and return to the city for the rest of the year, leaving the burden upon the poorer parishioners. That was the strain of the argument made by the women.

Drop Cigars to Pay Salary.

"Oh, but $1,000 is not much," said pessimist laughingly and he quickly found a warm supporter in Henry Cornwell. "We can raise that easily. We can cut out a trip to Long Branch and a dip in the surf, saving $50 or so. That money can be dropped into the collection box on Sunday."

"Yes," said Cornwell, "I advise that the men give up one cigar and thus save $10 a week. That can go into the collection box. Why, the men can almost pay that extra $1,000 themselves."

SUICIDE RUMOR NOW IN MAGILL POISON DEATH

CLINTON, Ill., July 19.—The unexpected return of State's Attorney Miller is the most conspicuous event to-day in connection with the situation growing out of charges against Fred Magill and his young bride, of complicity in the death of Magill's first wife.

"I received information," said Attorney Miller, "leading me to believe that my presence is needed there, so I turned back. Sheriff Campbell will bring the Magills to Clinton. An effort will be made to have a preliminary hearing on Tuesday before Circuit Judge W. C. Cockran."

Mrs. Pet Magill's own physicians say she had been in the habit of taking arsenic pills for headaches and nervousness, and that she might have taken four or five on the day of her death. To this is added the fact that a small amount of arsenic may have been contained in the embalming fluid.

Stories of a disagreement between Magill and his first wife several months ago, which almost led to a divorce, provide material for speculation to-day. Four months before her death Mrs. Magill went to the home of her relatives in Dayton, Ohio, and while she was gone Fay Graham moved into the Magill home "that she might be nearer her school child, Margaret."

Shortly afterward Magill telegraphed his wife to come back. Relatives declare she exclaimed when the message came:

"It cannot be Fred, for he is dead. They are afraid to tell me."

Rumors of a suicide pact between Magill and his wife were based on this report, and it is said Mrs. Magill never expected to return when she left for her Ohio home.

BOY AND GIRL CURED OF SORES

Which Broke out on Face and Body —Medical Treatment Did Them No Good—Mother Cured Both Her Little Ones and Now The

WHOLE FAMILY JOINS IN PRAISE OF CUTICURA

"My son's trouble was running sores which first appeared on his face and then broke out all over his body. I had tried doctor after doctor for three months but none helped him. Then I was advised to try Cuticura. My druggist said that he could give me a salve that would help him, but I demanded Cuticura Ointment and after using it for a while I was surprised to see an improvement. I treated the sores with Cuticura Ointment on soft bandages after washing with warm water and Cuticura Soap, and gave him the Cuticura Pills. In two weeks he was almost cured, and after the second day of Cuticura Remedies for two or three months I can now say that I have one of the finest boys in town, and I tell all my neighbors that he owes his health to Cuticura. Later my little daughter was all covered with sores on her face and body. I didn't waste much time or money with doctors, as I had done when my boy was sick, but used the Cuticura Remedies on her, and now my little girl is entirely cured. I send you her photograph to show how she looks after we used Cuticura. I know of several other cures which Cuticura Remedies have effected, including that of our domestic, Miss S——, whose face was covered with mosquito bites which she scratched until they became a mass of sores and which she cured in no time with Cuticura Ointment. Our whole family joins in sending their thanks and praise for all that Cuticura Remedies have done for us. Mrs. Rose Floss, 1206 W. Another hard out to crack, the Pirates will open here with the Doves to-day. They are scheduled to play four games.

The Pittsburgers are playing the best game they have shown in years just at present, and should be every bit as hard to defeat as the Cubs.

The Pirates put it all over the Cubs in a recent series, making the champions look like a lot of dead ones. This was going some, judging by the finished article of ball put up by the Windy City tribe in this city.

"Young Cy" Young is carded to pitch for the home team to-day, while "Deacon" Phillippi will probably pitch for the visitors.

The Doves lost the third straight to the Cubs yesterday, 2 to 0, being forced out of fifth place by the Brooklyns. Pat Flaherty was arrayed against "Doyle" Overall, and with the exception of the first inning, when the Cubs got both their tallies, pitched gilt edge ball.

Boston had plenty of men on bases, but the necessary hits never came to send them over the plate.

LAWRENCE CLUB PHOTO FREE

New England League baseball fans should be sure to get next Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN. Among other diamond features it will contain a full-page picture of the Lawrence team.

The Lawrence boys, although not likely to land the flag, put up a good game and have many admirers.

Next Sunday's photo is unusually good.

Notes of the Harness Horses

Up at the Johnson Farm are three three-year- olds that Trainer Shank intends racing him at the big fall meeting there.

One is a two-year-old named Silver Baron, by Baron Silver, 2.27¼, being trained at Readville that is very likely to take something to say to the futurities next Fall, should he continue to improve as fast in the future as he has been doing. It is easy for him to beat 2.30 now. He is owned by Mr. Clement of South Lancaster.

Another is Captain Dillingham, by Lasing 2.07¾, Captain Aubrey, too, is by the same sire, and out of May Fern, 2.21¼.

Reports from Cleveland state that George Hall's gelding Kim, 2.15¼, has been in 2.10¼, and horses from having sore and cracked heels.

Jimmy Moran is one of the bike riders in the series, which will close Saturday night, for the diamond medal offered by the Boston American. The lucky cyclist will get the medal after the race.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Manager Jim McGuire's Pilgrims are here for a four-game series with the World's Champion White Sox, and they expect to break even in the series.

George Winter will twirl for the Bostons to-day, while Nick Altrock will probably deliver the curves for the local team.

Nick Altrock, ever since he left the Bulltown, has had their goat, and has usually won one of two games in a series from them. Manager Jones figures putting him in to-day and on Monday and he thinks his southpaw will land both games.

The Bostons didn't play yesterday, owing to rain in St. Louis, while the Chicagoes lost a doubleheader to the Highlanders.

BALLS MUST BE RETURNED FROM STANDS

If there are any fans in Boston who are souvenir collectors and who have been figuring on getting a ball that is hit into the stands at the South End they had better change their plans.

As the result of the orders issued by President Harry Pulliam, every club in the National League has started a crusade against fans keeping balls that are batted in the stands. Of the 500 dozen of balls ordered by the National League there remains but 100 dozen. That shows how the balls have been used. Hundreds of balls have been stolen by rooters.

Secretary Farrell, the initiative in ring after the offenders, while Brooklyn is a close second. President Roberts has made information against two rooters, charging them with larceny. The New York management threatens the same.

There is no reason why the ball shouldn't be returned. The moral obligation should lead a man to return any ball that is soaked into the stands. The Boston club has not suffered much from stolen balls. The spectators generally fire the ball on to the diamond. That is as it should be. To keep a ball is merely committing a theft. It might appear as a souvenir, but as a serious offence and fans in their enthusiasm shouldn't forget that.

CLOSE FIGHT FOR SUBURBAN LEAGUE FLAG

The Suburban League series is just half over with Hawkin and Hartman fighting for the lead in the first section and Webster, Auburn and Quincy having it out in the second section. Only two games are scheduled for Saturday the Riversiders meeting the Quincys at Malden, while Glendale and Matapan will be conclusions with Matapan at Franklin Park. Cassidy, who has allowed but eight hits and fanned thirty-eight batters in his last three games, will twirl for Quincy, while Lafreniere will do the box-work for the Medford team.

"Mosty" Moore, who has been Matapan once this year will try to put it in them again for the Somerville nine that think differ. "Lefty" Barrows or "Sig" Mortissey will serve the pellets for Matapan.

UMPIRE GIVEN PUNCHING BY FALL RIVER MEN

WORCESTER, July 19.—The worst episode ever seen on a baseball field occurred on Boulevard Park yesterday in the Fall River-Worcester New England League game. The affray happened in the eighth inning and marred what proved to be the best game of the season.

Pitcher Gilroy was the direct cause of the trouble, as he started the disgraceful scene, and Second Baseman Gutheen was a close second for the "fighting honors." In the eighth inning Umpire Merritt, whose work in the past games has been without question, called Knotts safe at the plate on a close play. This riled Catcher Waters of the visiting team, and he abused the umpire and was sent to the bench.

A moment later Litschi was declared safe at first base on a close play and before the game was resumed Gilroy sent some hot shot at Umpire Merritt. The umpire made no reply, so far as known, but ordered Gilroy to pitch the ball. The pitcher sent a fast ball to Merritt's ear, drawing blood, and as Merritt cleared for action Second Baseman Gutheen contemptibly grabbed the umpire by the head and held him in such a position that both he and Gilroy could hit him at will.

Manager Burkett on the entire Worcester team separated the fighters and policemen scattered the crowd that had surged on to the field. As a result of the affray Gilroy was fined $10, while Waters and Gutheen were each fined $5.

Worcester won the game, 1 to 0, the run having been scored by Gilroy, who allowed the Champs only three hits, while Fall River got one more off Stine.

A. A. A. TOURISTS LEAVE CANTON FOR PITTSBURG

By J. C. KERRISON.

CANTON, O., July 19.—This morning opened up bright and clear with every prospect of the day being a duplicate of the perfect yesterday as far as weather conditions are concerned. The A. A. A. tourists were delighted with weather conditions and, although thoroughly tired out as a result of the ride of yesterday and the royal hospitality showered upon them by the local organizations, lost no time in getting under way for Pittsburg, some 100 miles distant, which trip must be made in six hours.

The Pittsburg men are jubilant over the fact that they will go into their home city with their team having a clean score and what is believed to be a firm hold on the Gidde tour, although, of course, there is no telling what a day will bring forth, and to-day is one full of water, hare and rocky roads.

The two confetti cars, the Maxwell and Frontier, got out of town long before the tourists were awake, and at 6:30 the pilot car left. At 7 o'clock Flynn pulled out, starting first in order to get it to Pittsburg in the lead.

The Acme car is out of the running, it having experienced clutch trouble yesterday and being in no shape to start to-day and being in no shape to start to-day's run. The Deere car, which went into the canal yesterday, came into town under her own power bent about 2 o'clock this morning. Tom Fetch, that king of road drivers, went to the canal, helped pull the Deere out and then made the canal repair. He detached the emergency brake level from the ratchet, attached it to the end of the running board and connected the steering rod thereto, and made it possible to handle the wheels with this improvised apparatus.

ELMER FLICK MAY DESERT CLEVELANDS

CLEVELAND, July 19.—The Leader printed a story on its first page this morning saying that Elmer Flick, outfielder, would quit the Cleveland ball team next Tuesday and probably would retire from the game for good. It is said that several other players are anxious to quit the team and matters have almost reached a crisis.

Catcher Clarke yesterday pulled off his equipment and walked off the field after Hess had passed three passes, forcing in two runs. It is said he thought Lajoie's signal calling in Hess was intended for him and that he used such forcible language to the manager that he may be fined.

Flick's desertion now would leave the Naps in bad shape as he alone is hitting the ball, having suffered marked batting slumps. Since Lajoie was incapacitated the team has been playing indifferent ball.

NO MONEY FOR FITZ OR JOHNSON

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—If Bob Fitzsimmons and Jack Johnson ever get their money for their fight at the Washington Sporting Club, they must go to court for it, the contention being that the men did not put up a real fight. To-day the club will file a bond to cover the attachments on the boxers' end of the receipts and then they will go into court for the purpose of preventing the payment to the two fighters.

WHO ARE THE GRAFTERS?

Let Us Have Their NAMES, Now

The revelations now being made in the Boston Post's inquiry as to the extortionate prices for telephone service are shocking to any person who would like to believe in the possibility of decent municipal government.

They confirm what everybody who knows anything about politics in Boston has believed for a long time. The public service corporations have their slimy hands on the State government and on the city government.

The other day the manager of the Telephone Trust confessed that in six months ten per cent. of the nominal expenses of the "underground construction" department had consisted of money paid to bogus employes whose names were placed on the payrolls at the behest of politicians.

Yesterday, E. W. Longley, the auditor of the company, was not required to answer a question as to the habit of the company of contributing to campaign funds and as to the large staff of lawyers and others who are paid to INFLUENCE LEGISLATION at the State House.

The Highway Commission, which has been conducting this hearing, has from the beginning shown a remarkable tendency to shield the telephone company. It exhibited this tendency further yesterday by failing to get any facts as to the amounts of money contributed for campaign purposes, as to the persons to whom the payments were made, as to the names of the men who were hired to influence legislation, and as to the amounts paid these men.

S. L. Powers, one of the men in Massachusetts who help the trusts to maintain their ownership of the Republican party (and therefore of the Highway Commission) appeared as counsel for the telephone company. Mr. Powers expressed the opinion that it would be UNFAIR to the persons who were hired to influence legislation on behalf of the Telephone Trust to make their names public. He offered to submit the names to the commission for PRIVATE consumption only.

The public has had enough of this secrecy and evasion on the part of the Highway Commission. IT HAS A RIGHT TO KNOW not only how much money the Telephone Trust is spending for the purpose of corrupting the Legislature and controlling the city government but also WHO ARE GETTING THE MONEY.

John H. Lee, one of Foxy Fitz's right hand agents, is carried on the books of the Telephone Trust.

Who are the others?

CUT OUT THE CANCER!

We cannot call attention too often to the fact that PRIVATE ownership of PUBLIC monopolies is the main source of graft in American politics. These hideous revelations in connections with the Telephone Trust are unimportant compared with the revelations that COULD be made if an honest, thorough inquiry should be conducted into the affairs of the Boston Elevated Railway, the Gas Company, the ELECTRIC LIGHTING COMPANY, and the New Haven Railroad.

There is only one way to stop this corruption, which threatens the vitals of democratic government.

A surgical operation must be performed. THE CANCEROUS TRUSTS MUST BE CUT OUT OF POLITICS.

Will the old parties do this? Hardly. It would be like cutting their own hearts out.

The only hope lies in a new party, like the INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE, which is not itself afflicted by the disease.

It Is Cheerful When It Does Happen, Isn't It?

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

Out at Gary, Indiana, the United States Steel Trust owns a town. It thought it "owned" the people. It finds it doesn't own them—quite.

The discovery of this fact was a shock to the intellectual dollar marks concerned.

The model steel town wanted a model street railway. And, of course, the Steel Trust wanted the usual model dividend—that is to say, a good deal more than the thing was worth.

The Steel Trust took it for granted that if it owned the town it must necessarily own the people and their representatives. It was quite indignant when the Council of the town demanded a three-cent fare for the steel workers.

The reply of the Steel Trust was that the people were very ungrateful, and that if they wouldn't give a franchise for a five-cent fare they could go without street cars, walk to work and be docked if late.

That seemed conclusive; but it wasn't. Another man turned up in the Steel Trust model town. He was a country lawyer. He made a bid for the franchise, depositing a moderate amount of money. He got the franchise, and will sell eight street car tickets for twenty-five cents—practically three cents apiece.

The Steel Corporation is sad, but it has learned something. One after another corporation will learn an important fact, which is—you can "own" property, dollars, corporations, but you can't OWN PEOPLE. They may be quiet for a while, but you can't tell when they will wake up. You may think you have got them practically where you want them, but you can't tell when your great surprise will come.

The little lesson which the citizens of a model town taught to one big corporation will be taught to ALL of the big corporations by the citizens of the entire United States when the time comes. And it may not be so far off.

Some of these old smoke-begrimed buildings in Boston excite one to inquire: "If granite looks thus from the smoke nuisance what must be the condition of human lungs in Boston?"

Civic beauty, vegetation, personal cleanliness, the public health and an annual loss of multitudes of thousands of dollars all unite to protest against the black smoke with which our city is being polluted.

Professor L. H. Breckenridge, director of the engineering experiment station of the University of Illinois, assures us that "I am of the opinion that six different types of furnaces will be sufficient to burn without smoke any coal in the United States."

* * *

He says (what is worth remembering here in Boston): "The essential thing is to have a boiler so placed that the flame from the coal will not touch it. Light a candle and it will burn without smoke. Place a saucer in the flame and there will be plenty of smoke. Keep the flame from touching the boiler and you will have smokeless conditions."

She Gives Some Important Suggestions to Literary Aspirants Who Depend on Others

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

THE sensitiveness and egotism of the young, who are seeking the road to success, often blinds them to any least consideration for others.

Thousands of young literary aspirants, for instance, send their brain ware to older writers, asking for criticism and personal influence. Not one of them realizes that twenty others may be sending just such requests by the same post; and that for a busy man or woman to even read these manuscripts means the giving up of nearer duties.

A young woman recently sent a package of manuscripts to me with a request that I give my candid opinion of them and place them for her if possible. Something like fifty similar requests had reached me that week and all of them had received a similar reply.

The young writer was recommended to send her manuscripts to the magazines direct, and to type them first, as editors rarely read written MSS.

A Sarcastic Letter

THE young woman responded with a very sarcastic letter, which ended as follows:

"I take this opportunity of informing you that I regret exceedingly having troubled you in any fashion. I should not have done so, had I not been so poor that I could not afford to get or rent a machine and so put out my stuff through the ordinary channels. This is my only excuse for having intruded myself upon and asked a helping hand for one who has worked her way to the top."

This is not the attitude of mind by which the one she addressed "worked her way to the top," or toward the top. It was never my experience to send a MS. to an older writer and ask for criticism or influence.

It never occurred to me to do such a thing; for it always seemed to me the editors of periodicals were the ones to address, and it was their decisions not those of middlemen I wanted.

No third person ever yet helped any young writer to a success worth having.

No editor ever took more than one article to please a friend.

Editors are merely merchants who buy what they think their patrons, the readers of the world, will want.

Don't Ask for Criticism

IN these hurried days, the literary aspirant who hopes for favor in the eyes of editors, must first procure money enough to have poems or stories typed before sending them out. It is a part of literary preparation—like proper spelling.

Fifteen or twenty cents will pay for typing a short poem. It is better to use that amount than to waste two in sending it to a busy man or woman for an opinion or criticism, which counts for nothing in its sale.

And it is better to save one's vital forces in thinking success, than to waste it in the ugly, selfish mood of resentment over the refusal of the busy editor to read MSS.

The spirit in which this woman wrote the words quoted above will do more to hinder her from achieving success than all the obstacles fate can throw in her way.

It never once occurred to her that any reasons could exist which made the task she imposed upon another impossible of fulfilment without neglect of more important duties. This is because she has not learned to think considerately of others.

Again I say to all writers, young or old, with literary ambitions: Never send your wares to any person for an opinion or for influence save to an editor or literary agent.

Depend upon yourself, first of all, and upon the editors afterward.

Talent Is Not All

THERE was never a period in the world's history when so many editors were paying good prices for the literature they want as now. Your work is to study their wants and to find the power in yourself to supply those wants.

If you have a message for humanity, you, you alone, can obtain the world's ear.

Talent is only part of achievement.

The way to make talent heard or seen is the other part of the proof that you possess it to a degree which makes it of value.

Instead of reaching out to other people to help you, reach in and awaken the half dormant powers in yourself.

The greatest favor anyone can do you is to force you to find the way alone.

The greatest misfortune that can befall a mortal is to have anyone solve a single problem in the great algebra of life which the master set for his [illegible] doing.

The power lies in you to solve all these problems.

I would rather be lonely and unaided through life and be forced to find what I could do by extreme necessity, than to obtain one single benefit which I had not earned by personal effort.

Look to Yourself

LOOK in your own mind, your own soul for success. Never for one instant think another person can bring you success. It lies between you and the Great Source of Power.

Concentrate on the best in yourself and you will increase that Power.

Think God when there is no one to show you the way, or to lift your load, for then you will not be tempted to shift it to other shoulders and to become a mental or spiritual weakling.

Titles

By James J. Montague

IN jolly old Edward's monarchic domain when the Government stands in need
Of a million or two,
And rich bounders come through.
Their titles are all guaranteed,
And hard on the heels of a heated campaign among the pound sterling gentility
There springs up like mushrooms right after a rain new patents of lofty nobility.
How and that the patriots here on our side may never be thusly accorded
The titles of might
That are plainly their right,
And thereby be fitly rewarded!

FOR instance, A. Belmont, who never has paused when the dear G. O. P. needed staking,
But has passed round the hat
Like a good Democrat,
Should be known as the Earl of Bookmaking.
The title is his, for the whole brotherhood as a high-honored member admits him.
And the people should rise and award him the prize to show that they know that it fits him.

IF Perkins et al. had received their deserts the public would not have rebuked 'em,
But on each worthy head
Would have loaded, instead
Of reproaches, a glittering dukedom,
While John D. and Rogers and all of their crowd would be slapped by the President's sword
A blow on each brow
While he said to them, "Now
You're a Grand Duke of Rebates, my Lord!"

BUT as for the people who never gave up, but whose share was to merely supply
The funds that went in
To the G. O. P. bin,
Their titles would not be so high,
The duty of each would be merely to hail the newly-made lords and look pleased
While proceeding to play,
As they're doing to-day,
The part of the title-digging peasant.

Keeping the People Divided

(FROM THE NORTHAMPTON DAILY HERALD.)

THE hope of the Sun and papers of its class is in keeping the people about evenly divided between the two old gangs that are after their votes, for so long as they can do so they can feel that they stand a better show of carrying out the designs of predatory wealth and enriching themselves.

POISON MYSTERY INVOLVES BANKER WITH GIRL BRIDE

Magill, Man of Millions, and Beautiful Young Woman Formally Charged with Having Given His First Wife Strychnine in Beer.

DOOMED WOMAN VAINLY ASKED HUSBAND TO DRINK WITH HER

Pretty Daughter of Accused Man Expected to Tell of Wild Revels in Death Chamber—Fay Graham, It Is Declared, Was at Bedside When Rival Died.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CHICAGO, July 20.—Fred H. Magill, the banker of Clinton, Ill., and Fay Graham, his bride, and former stenographer, stood directly charged to-day with the murder of Magill's first wife, Mrs. Pet Magill, by giving her strichnine in a glass of beer.

This direct charge against the son of a house of millions was made for the first time since he and his pretty bride were arrested at San Diego, Cal., when Governor Gillett of California signed requisition papers for their extradition back to Illinois.

State's Attorney Arthur Miller of Illinois and H. A. Campbell of Illinois were in San Diego to-day, ready to take Magill and his wife back to Clinton. The man and the woman had already intimated that they would fight the attempt to place them in an Illinois jail to await their trial for murder.

GREAT POISON PLOT.

The State's Attorney, following his success in getting the order for taking the two prisoners back, disclosed for the first time the astounding accusation of a poison plot that will be made against the banker and his bride when they face the bar. Piece by piece, those charges have been put together, based partly on what Magill himself has said since his first wife died and partly on the alleged complicity of others in Clinton.

On the night that Pet Magill died, the State will charge, Magill opened a bottle of beer for her, at her request. His wife had already been primed with ideas of death, but by suicide, in part with her husband, formed at his suggestion.

He Refused Deadly Glass.

The State's Attorney declares that the plot was not executed immediately. Magill, he says, left the room for glasses, and when he returned his wife, after pouring the contents of the bottle into the two glasses, asked him to drink the contents of one. He refused, and she spilled the contents of both glasses on the floor.

But during the night he arose and fetched another bottle of beer. He brought a glass to his wife as she lay in bed. Then, the State will charge, Magill either deceived her into believing that she was able to carry out her part of the suicide pact by drinking, or poisoned the beer outright and gave it to her to drink.

Depends on Daughter.

This is the outline of the story that the state will try to prove when Magill and his bride face trial, but the proof, circumstantial as it must be, will depend upon Miss Marguerite Magill, daughter of the banker.

It is this girl, the chum of her father's bride, whom the State hopes to bring to the witness stand to accuse her father. That she will be an unwilling witness is known, but it is hoped to force her to admit enough to convict her father.

Pretty Miss Magill Can Tell of Revels After Mother Died

CLINTON, Ill., July 20.—Faye Graham Magill, the nineteen-year-old bride of Frederick H. Magill, the banker, who is under arrest at San Diego, Cal., on the charge of murdering his wife on May 30, it is declared, was in the Magill home that night.

It is declared that she did not leave until 2 a. m., three hours before Mrs. Magill was found dead.

The Assistant States' Attorney declares that he has witnesses to prove the charge.

DAUGHTER HOLDS KEY.

Marguerite Magill, the beautiful daughter of former Banker Fred H. Magill, is believed to hold the key to the mystery in the strange love tragedy which ended in the death of Mrs. Pet Magill and her husband's elopement and marriage to Faye Graham, the nineteen-year-old chum of his daughter.

The State's Attorney declares the girl can tell a startling story of midnight revels which recall the orgies in the studio of Stanford White.

Wine dinners in the death chamber of the Magill home; trips to Weldon Springs, where Magill, Miss Graham and the seventeen-year-old daughter participated in late suppers and where Magill is said to have conducted the orchestra for half an hour; lively visits to Chicago—these are some of the secrets the prosecutors of Magill promise to bare.

Daughter's Attitude Starting.

No less startling is the attitude of Marguerite Magill, the daughter of her mother and the chum of Faye Graham, the daughter is declared to have witnessed startling scenes in the Magill home, to have watched the increased love of her father for her

AMERICANS ARE FLEEING SEOUL IN TERROR, PEOPLE IN RAGE RISING FOR REVOLUTION

DEPOSED EMPEROR OF KOREA.

JAPANESE SOLDIERS UNABLE TO OVERAWE KOREANS IN REBELLION

Populace of Entire Hermit Kingdom Roused by Usurpation, and Ready to Strike at Handful of Japanese Invaders—Foreigners in Peril Fear for Their Lives and Property.

SEOUL, Korea, July 20.—An outbreak of the populace, because of their dissatisfaction over the abdication of the Emperor of Korea in favor of the Crown Prince, that would endanger the lives of Americans and other foreigners, is feared at any time.

The city is in the hands of Japanese troops who are not strong enough to meet a determined uprising. Reinforcements are being hurried to the scene.

When the great seal was being delivered into the hands of the Crown Prince a crowd of dissatisfied residents attacked the palace. The Japanese soldiers fired into the crowd, and it was reported that twenty-five were killed.

American residents are leaving the city and seeking protection elsewhere, although the situation outside of this city in Korea is more dangerous than here because of the troops who so far have been able to handle the matter.

Military Are in Control.

General Hasegawa is commander of the Japanese troops in the Hermit Kingdom. Though there has been no formal declaration of martial law, the military are in absolute control.

The consulates in Seoul are under heavy guard. Troops are patrolling the streets and all gatherings are broken up as soon as they are discovered. Despite these precautions there is no doubt that many secret meetings are being held to plan for a general uprising.

The situation is more serious outside Seoul than in the city itself. No troops can be spared from here, the few interior garrisons are small and the people will meet with practically no opposition in case of an anti-foreign outbreak.

An organization known as "The Secret League of Young Koreans" has been formed to combat the Japanization of the country. Conservative leaders have made strong representations to Marquis Ito and Foreign Minister Hayashi of Japan, begging them not to drive the country to extremes.

If, as is whispered in some circles, the Korean excitement was fomented by the Japanese government as a means of turning people's attention from thoughts of war with the United States, the matter has evidently gone farther than its originators intended.

Suicide of Prince.

The native press prints a sensational account of the reported suicide of Prince Yi at the Haze—a story as yet unconfirmed—and rumors that the Japanese intend to take the emperor to Tokio at once have further inflamed popular resentment against the Mikado.

The people regard the emperor as a martyr and any attempt to uphold him away is almost certainly result in bloodshed. The intensity of love of the Koreans for their Emperor is manifested on every side in this hour of distress. The demand that the Emperor transfer the governing power to a regent and humiliate himself by an apology to the Emperor of Japan is bitterly resented and threats against the lives of the offending ministers are freely made.

Soldiers to Quell Outbreak.

Adding greatly to the excitement came the unexpected announcement that Marquis Ito and General Hasegawa proceeded with a military escort to the palace. The route was lined with police. After the audience, which lasted two hours, the Koreans spread the report that the Emperor was to be carried to Japan. This added fuel to the flames and many secret meetings of Koreans were reported.

Crew Searched.

"I did not know then that I had been robbed, but after leaving Popham Beach I commenced to dress, and then I discovered my loss. I at once reported it to the officers of the vessel. At Bath the captain called up the members of the crew and examined them, but no trace of the missing articles was discovered. The steamboat officials at Bath are of the opinion that the robbery was committed by some person who knew me and who knew that I was in the habit of traveling to and from Boston with large sums of money, and who watched me on the boat."

Mrs. Bugbee said that diamonds to the value of $500, also a pearl ear drop valued at $75, and $60 in cash had been stolen. The wrist bag, which was a present, was valued at $25, and upon it were the initials "A. E. B." Mrs. Bugbee has offered a reward for the return of her property and no questions asked.

A MILL HAND'S ESCAPE.

W. L. Webster, a mill hand at Lisbon, N. H., was cured by Father John's Medicine of bronchitis and consumption, after the doctor had given him up to die. That wonderful remedy also gave him flesh and strength. 50 years in use.—Adv.

BOSTON WOMAN IS ROBBED OF JEWELS

Boston Woman Believes Jewels Were Stolen By Thief Entering Stateroom Window.

That she was drugged in her stateroom and robbed of jewels and other property worth $450, is the story told by Mrs. H. P. Bugbee of Boston, who arrived in Bath yesterday, from this city, on the steamer City of Bangor.

Dispatches to the BOSTON AMERICAN say that Mrs. Bugbee, whose home is at No. 71 Waverley street, Roxbury, is confident that she was drugged by a robber effecting entrance through the window, which she had left open. Though the members of the crew were searched on arrival of the steamer, no trace of the stolen gems has been found.

Mrs. Bugbee is the wife of one of the proprietors of the Menawarmet Hotel in Hackney Harbor, where she is living for the Summer. She had been on a business trip to Boston and was returning. She tells the following story of the robbery:

Left Window Open.

"We reached Popham Beach about 12:30 A. M., and it was between that hour and 3:30 A. M. when we arrived at Bath, that I discovered my jewels were taken. When I retired I took my jewels off. I placed them in a small purse, which in turn, I placed in a small wrist bag which I laid on the upper berth. It was so hot that I, like many other of the passengers, left my stateroom window open and also left the blind open, hanging a coat at the window as a screen.

"I awakened about midnight with a peculiar feeling in my head and it seemed to me that the pillow had a strange smell. I thought at first it might have been some disinfectant that had been put in the berths. The odor became more pungent and I called one of the attendants, who also remarked the odor, but could not account for it. Then I became nauseous and cramps set in, with every indication of a person who had been drugged.

MERGER INQUIRY WILL BE PUSHED

New York Utilities Board to Start Its Hearings Next Week.

New York, July 20.—William R. Willcox, chairman of the Public Service Commission, reports to begin the investigation of the Interborough-Metropolitan merger, as demanded by the Independence League, next week. It is probable that special counsel will be engaged to manage the probe. Under the law creating the commission witnesses will be compelled to answer questions or they may be committed for contempt.

Chairman Willcox will conduct the investigation. It is also probable that the early sessions of the inquiry will be held in City Hall, neither the ardarmanic or council chamber, provided Borough President Ahearn will consent to the use of the room.

Justice Hendrick yesterday, by consent of counsel, adjourned until July 26 the hearing on the application of Attorney General Jackson to bring action in the name of the people to set aside the merger of the Interborough and Metropolitan street railway companies.

CHANCELLOR DAY ACTS LIKE COLLIE DOG, SAYS PASTOR

Syracuse University's Head Is Paid by Rockefeller to Round Up Sheep, Declares Methodist.

BUFFALO, July 20.—The Rev. Dr. Bryon H. Stauffer, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church in this city, who is one of the best known preachers in the western district of the State, in an interview to-day denounced Chancellor James R. Day of Syracuse University for his defense of the trusts.

"Chancellor Day is too big a man to be a collie dog to the trusts," said the Rev. Dr. Stauffer. "At present his chief business seems to be to round up the sheep for his masters. He barks at any passerby who carries a big stick. For every bark he has a bone tossed to him in the form of a few thousand dollars for the university. The bones are those of struggling business men brave enough to enter the sphere which the monopolists have reserved for themselves.

Not Following Bible.

"The dog puts the bones on a pile and then goes to Methodist conferences, wags his tail, points to the pile, puts up his nose to be told that he is a good dog, and carries away resolutions pointing with pride to the achievements of the school at Syracuse.

"Meanwhile, the Rev. Dr. James Roscoe Day is a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in charge of an institution where young men are supposed to be taught under the benign influence of the Man of Galilee. The Bible teaches us that Christ, who is supposed to govern at Syracuse, came to fight the beast who causes all to receive a mark on their right hand or on their forehead, and that no man might buy or sell save he that had that mark of the beast.

Forgets Chief Duty.

"Has Chancellor Day forgotten his chief duty? He is defending men who have no respect for the Golden Rule, who conspire against their neighbors, who have been repeatedly accused of restraining freedom of commerce, who conspire to control prices, who have put handcuffs upon their competitors by the creation of a system of rebates and who have crushed small dealers. He is defending men who have organized absolute monarchies in commercial realms, beside which the most arbitrary act of any government in America is a utopian benevolence."

Fair weather is announced for to-morrow with more heat. As a warning, it might be suggested that he beach can be visited with profit to health and pocketbook.

In the intense heat of yesterday throughout New England there were five deaths and scores of prostrations.
